

GLOSSARY OF TERMS AND FIGURES

- ◆ 1 x 25 yards = 1 length of the pool.
Therefore 1 x 50=2 lengths, 1 x 100=4 lengths and so on.
- ◆ The number in parenthesis is the number of seconds you should rest between each distance.
For example, 6 x 50 swim (:15) = Take 15 seconds rest between each 50.
- ◆ Kick/swim (or Drill/swim) means either a 25 kick/25 swim if you're doing 50's, or 50 kick/50 swim if you're doing 100's.
  - ◆ Descend* – means get faster with each 50 or 100.
For example, 3 x 100 descend = make each 100 get faster so that the third 100 is your fastest one.
  - ◆ Build* – means get increasingly faster within each 50 or 100.
For example, 4 x 75 build = make each 25 get faster within the 75 so that your third 25 is the fastest one.
  - ◆ Sprint* – means ALL OUT! GO FAST! KICK HARD!
- ◆ Please note the remarks made next to each date... these are things you can think about for that workout. Drills are also listed here.

DRILLS

- 1. Fingertip drag: drag your fingertips along the surface of the water as you recover your arm. This will help you keep your elbows high and extend your hand as far forward as you can before starting your underwater arm pull.
- 2. 4 or 6 kick-and-roll: take 4 to 6 kicks on your side with one arm extended above your head and the other down by your side, then take one pull so that you rotate to your other side and take 4 to 6 kicks again... repeat side to side. Make sure that your head is turned enough too so that you can breath to the side while you're kicking. DO NOT LIFT YOUR HEAD FORWARD!
- 3. Thumb-to-thigh: touch your thumb to your thigh at the finish of each stroke, making sure you follow all the way through with each arm pull.
- 4. Catch-up or Hand-on-hand: Take one complete arm stroke before starting a stroke with your other arm. Begin with both hands above your head in a streamline position, take a full stroke with your left arm keeping your right arm above your head, and don't begin the stroke with your right arm until your left hand touches your right hand. Then do the same thing with your right arm. This will get you to focus on each arm stroke independently making sure you're keeping your arm pull directly below your shoulder and not sweeping in across your centerline. Be sure to rotate from your hips to each side as you take your strokes.
